2 Letters Give Clues In Gang Slaying

BARE THREAT OF CAPONE TO KILL O'HARE

Police Get First Leads; One Message Found on Youth Stabbed on Street.

HINTS AT REWARD

Other Note Discovered in Slain Man's Hideout in Chicago, Links Him to Convict.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Two letters, one uncovered at Los Angeles, the other at Chicago, gave police their first definite leads today in the gangland assassination of Edward J. O'Hare, millionaire race track impresario.

One gave clues to the actual killers; the other said Scarface Al Capone had sworn to kill O'Hare and indicated he still is overlord of the Chicago underworld.

Police found one letter on the person of Russell Stoddard, 21, who was attacked and stabbed six times on a Los Angeles street late last night by two unidentified men. He said he was a former jockey at Tia Juana race track and had been O'Hare's bodyguard until recently.

. The letter indicated the writer know the identity of assassins who shot and killed O'Hare last Wednesday as he drove toward Chicago from Sportsmen's park race track, of which he was president. Stoddard was held as a material witness.

The second letter was found among O'Hare's effects by Chief Deputy Coroner Anthony Prusinski. It said two convicts released from Alcatraz had heard Capone, while still in Alcatraz, make threats against O'Hare and that "the big dago swears he is going to have O'Hare, or will see that some of his friends score for Eddie." (In underworld argot "scoring" means killing.)

Letter Gave Warning.

The letter found on Stoddard's person was mailed to him from Little Rock, Ark., Saturday from a "Fred Young," who gave a return address of the Paddock club, a tavern at Cicero, Ill. It told Stoddard "he did the right thing by leaving" when he did, spoke of

Jail Break Ends As Convict's Guns Won't Cooperate

BEDFORD, Ky.—(U.P.)—Sheriff Carroll Miles was alive today and all prisoners accounted for a Trimble county jail because a Zanesville, O., prisoner was unable to discharge guns which he held in each hand during an attempted escape.

Rollo W. Bailey, 22, the prisoner, with a pistol apparently smuggled to him, slugged Jailer Clarence Graves, 57, during a transfer from one cell to another. He picked up Graves' gun and headed for the jail yard.

There he cornered Sheriff Miles and demanded the keys to the jail. Miles, unarmed, refused to hand over the keys.

Bailey pulled the trigger of each seven times—neither gun went off.

Miles ran to his office where he got his own revolver. He returned with several other persons, overpowered Bailey and returned him to his cell.

An examination of the guns held by Bailey showed that the hammers had struck 14 cartridges without a single one exploding.

Want Glamor? Then Don't Imitate Sirens of Screen!

That's Connie Bennett's Advice—Most Make-up Overdone, She Says.

By JANE WILLIAMS

If you want to be glamorous—don't copy the movie stars.

So says Constance Bennett, who is appearing at a Cleveland theater this week, and who knows enough about glamor to write a handbook on it.

"What every woman forgets is that the movie stars are overdone," she declared, crossing two of the shapeliest legs in the industry, as we sat in her dressing room between her stage appearances. "The glamor girl in a picture over-emphasizes her features, her figure, her clothes. The woman who imitates her is pretty apt to look like the Vanishing American.

"In her matter of make-up," she continued as she sipped from a glass of milk, "most women overdo it. Women today are bewildered and confused by the dozen different colors of powder and rouge and lipstick that are on the market. Now there really are just two definite types of coloring, light and dark, and any woman, blond or brunet, can use either one As for rouge, it

Who'd Believe Winter's Just Around Corner?

Honest-to-goodness winter weather seemed a long way off today as the sun warmed the air and skies were clear for the fourth consecutive day.

After an early morning haze lifted today the sun came out as brightly as though winter were not just around the corner. The mercury was recorded at 50 degrees at noon and indications were that it would go higher during the afternoon which isn't bad for mid-November. During the night the thermometer registered 33 degrees, one above freezing.

Fair and warmer was forecast for tonight and tomorrow for this part of Ohio, and there still may be another "Indian summer" in the offing.

Officials, Leaders Meet; Mayor Again Asks State to Help.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—City council summoned civic, business and labor leaders to a meeting to consider Cleveland's relief crisis today as Mayor Harold H. Burton drafted another appeal to Gov. John W. Bricker and Charles L. Sherwood, state welfare director, for a special session of the legislature.

Fred W. Ramsey, city welfare director, said the city had only $100,000 left for relief from now until Jan. 1 and intimated that all poor relief except for the direct cases would have to be shut off unless help was forthcoming.

BUSINESS HIKE CHEERS KNOX AND MORROW

Hydraulic Press at Mt. Gilead Announces Plans to Erect $500,000 Addition.

ORDERS UP 30 PER CENT

Mt. Vernon Plant, Closed Since September, '38, to Re-open, Provide Jobs for 500.

Morrow and Knox counties, neighbors of Richland county on the south, were cheered today as one industrial firm announced plans for the construction of a $500,000 plant addition and another prepared to re-open after being idle 14 months.

With orders running 30 per cent ahead of last year, officials of the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company at Mt. Gilead announced that a half-million dollar addition to the plant will be built as a part of an expansion program.

At Mt. Vernon, the Cooper-Bessemer corporation, the city's largest and oldest industry, will reopen, possibly providing employment for nearly 500 men who were laid off in September, 1938, when the plant closed. The firm manufactures gas and Diesel engines.

Authorize Re-financing.

Spurred by the business and industrial revival, stockholders of the Mt. Gilead concern at a special meeting yesterday authorized refinancing through a new issue of preferred stock and a 10-for-one split-up of present common stock.

The new preferred issue will total 26,400 shares with a par value of $25. Of the total, 6,400 shares are intended for exchange to be made holders of the present issue. The remaining 20,000 shares, with 40,000 shares of the new common stock, will be sold to underwriters.

President Howard F. McMillin of the Hydraulic company said "the company's backlog of orders indicates a continuance through 1940 of the present rate

100-VOTE ERROR FOUND BY BOARD

Official Count Cuts Kelley's Majority, Breaks Tie in Township Trustee Race.

With one exception, only minor errors of from one to 14 votes were revealed in a re-check of the returns in Mansfield's municipal election a week ago, election board officials said today.

City Auditor Paul Kelley, re-elected by a margin of nearly 1,300 votes, lost 100 votes in the official count approved last night by the election board. That error was the largest of any uncovered by the board. None of the changes in the city altered the standing of the candidates.

The count also resulted in the election of S. H. Cashman as Plymouth township trustee by a three-vote margin over his opponent, Virgil Baird, with whom he had been tied. The official count gave Cashman 244 votes to Baird's 241.

Prove Illini Star Stepped Out of Field on Game-winning Jaunt.

MADISON, Wis. — Motion pictures of the Big Ten football game, which Wisconsin lost 7 to 0 to Illinois last Saturday, showed that Jimmy Smith, Illini halfback, stepped out of bounds in his 82-yard touchdown jaunt, it was revealed here today. His left foot hit the sideline marker and his right foot was completely out of the field of play.

Criticism of Illinois football fans at the weekly downtown coaches meeting here last night for "unsportmanlike shouting" whenever the Badgers had possession of the ball was made by Coach Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin. The Wisconsin eleven was forced to go into a huddle when they could not hear signals over the roar of the crowd.

DELAYS ACTION

Marriott Says No Charges to Be Filed Now in Slugging.

No charge will be filed immediately against Ralph Copeland, 21, colored inmate of the Mansfield reformatory who slugged Charles J. McFadden, 59, a guard, last Saturday afternoon, pending the outcome of McFadden's injuries, Prosecutor G. W. Marriott said today.

"We have Copeland where we can get him when we want him and there's no reason for any hurry in filing the charge," the prosecutor said. "We may even wait and present the case to the next grand jury without bringing a formal charge," he added.

Marriott took statements yesterday afternoon from Copeland, guards at the reformatory and inmates who witnessed the slugging.

Struck over the head with a two-by-four, McFadden remained in a serious condition today at General hospital. Attending physicians said it could not be determined yet whether he will lose the sight of his left eye.

Practice Now If You Hope To Do Neat Turkey Carving

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — This is a Thanksgiving story for men only—men who never have been able to decide whether to carve the turkey from the sitting or standing position.

The Agriculture department has made a long study of the situation, and has decided that either attack will do.

However, don't try to mix the two. A change of pace is fine for baseball and football, but it won't do for the dining room.

After the turkey reaches the table, the cook no longer has jurisdiction over the bird. Yet she can be a big help if she will remember to:

1. Put the bird on a big platter—every man needs space.

2. Hold the garnish to a few well-placed sprigs of parsley—don't hinder the carver.

3. Keep the water glasses away—too many wives limit their husband's working area.

Some men have trouble from the broadside position. They should choose the point-to-point system.

Few men have trouble with the turkey legs; it's the wings that throw them. Remember—the place to cut is usually much farther toward the center of the bird than you think.

With the wing off, the breast is ready. The department endorses cutting it with a slightly swinging motion down and away from the carver.

This advice is given before Thanksgiving because the department urges a practice or warm-up period—not necessarily on turkey. The ottoman will do, but you'd better start tonight.

Real News--City to End '39 With Relief Balance

$25,000 In Bonds Issued Today, Plus State Allocation, Put Mansfield In Unique Position.

Mansfield will be one Ohio city that can go to the head of the class on Dec. 31, when it ends the year with balanced books on its relief problem and approximately $4,000 left over.

The situation will be unique, because Mansfield relief accounts have been a headache for several years. The city will also be one of the few in the state that has managed to keep ahead of its relief bills.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today signed and turned over to the Citizens National Bank and Trust company, their purchaser, $25,000 in crisp new bonds, issued against the anticipated collections of delinquent city taxes. This method of raising relief funds has been authorized by the state and Mansfield city council approved the plan sometime ago.

$7,750 From State.

This amount will bring in another $7,750 from the state, according to Paul Kelley, city auditor, making a total of $32,750.

Kelley said today that while the state is authorized by law to match municipal funds on a fifty-fifty basis, up to a certain amount of state funds set aside for the purpose, the state has been able so far only to give about 31 per cent, and that would be about the amount Mansfield would receive this time.

The city's relief grocery bill on Oct. 31 was $16,800, Kelly said, and the months of November and December will increase it by $12,000. When these two bills are paid at the end of December, there still will be a "nest egg" of about $4,000 with which to start the new year.

SHIP WRECKED

Nazi Boat Believed Victim of Explosion or Storm.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(U.P.)—The sea cast up wreckage today of what waterfront men believed was a German freighter blown up by an explosion or battered by a terrific storm.

The latest evidence of a ship sinking consisted of the side wall of a radio cabin, bearing radio terms in German on small aluminum plates; the top board of a lifeboat gunwale and other debris not immediately recognizable.

Seamen here who had served in the World war said the jagged edges of the cabin wall indicated the vessel was either blown to bits or crushed by the force of a storm.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—Renewal of intensive warfare on the high seas has sent a total of 11 vessels, including one British warship to the bottom this week, reports showed today.

(By United Press)

LONDON—As the war on the sea stepped up in pace, the admiralty today announced the loss of a British destroyer, which struck a German mine and the sinking of the trawler Cresswell by a U-boat while the press association said a cargo steamer had gone down as a result of an explosion.

The casualty list for the lost destroyer, announced by the admiralty, was one dead, six missing and 15 injured. Seventy survivors from the destroyer were landed at a British port.

Six of the 12 men aboard the trawler Cresswell were saved.

The press association said that an hour after the destroyer sank, a cargo steamer, only a mile away, went down after an explosion.

The Cresswell, it was believed, was sunk by a German submarine off the north coast of Scotland.

Two fishermen, Lack Pocok and Benjamin Richards, witnessed the sinking of the destroyer two miles away from where they were fishing in their motorboat. They were startled by the loud explosion and at once proceeded to the scene where they helped to rescue men who were leaping from the doomed ship.

"The destroyer was surrounded by oil and men were plunging into the sea from the decks," Richards said. "Some clung to debris and spars, others swam and we saw some sinking. Many were exhausted when we pulled them into our boat. A number refused help until we had picked up weaker swimmers.

"As we assisted some we had to watch others drown. It was impossible to help them."

Richards and Pocok saved 60 men, including three officers, who were transferred to a tug which was being towed by the destroyer when the explosion occurred.

Most of the survivors who were landed from the tug were a pitiful sight. They were scantily clad, some had no clothing and all were thickly coated with oil. Several of the injured were aided by their comrades and a half dozen of the more seriously injured were carried on stretchers.

Six of Crew Saved.

Soon after the admiralty announced the loss of the destroyer a radio message from the trawler Phyllisia said that a U-boat had sunk the Cresswell, 275 tons, and that six of the Cresswell's crew of 12 had been taken aboard the Phyllisia.

The name of the destroyer, the location of its sinking, even its classification by type was withheld. British destroyers range from 1,500-ton flotilla leaders, carrying 175 men, to 900-ton ones with 98 men.

Two were killed and 22 injured last night in the explosion of the British freighter Matra, 8,003 tons. The captain, pilot, 10 officers and about 40 Lascar members of the crew were rescued by a lifeboat.

The Matra went down in the North sea.

The rescue lifeboat made three visits to the scene of the explo-

PEACE: Hitler Turns Down Mediation, Blaming Allies

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today politely rejected the offer of mediation made by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold on the grounds that Great Britain and France have openly announced their determination to dismember and destroy the greater reich.

The fuehrer's carefully framed reply to the proposal, embodying his contention that the Allies had left him no alternative but to continue the war, was handed to the Belgian and Dutch ministers in Berlin at noon by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

Its text was not made public immediately, but authentic quarters said that it followed the lines of this statement by a government spokesman yesterday:

"The British and French replies (to the mediation offer) represent a challenge to the German nation. . . . They reveal that Britain's war aim is destruction of the reich. The Allies have deliberately sabotaged the latest peace move while trying to throw a smoke-screen around England's war guilt."

Regardless of further attempts by neutral nations to restore peace in Europe, it is now understood that Hitler has made up his mind that the only solution lies in "war to the hilt."

Where and how Germany's armed might will strike remain known only to the fuehrer and a few of his closest key-men. But that a staggering blow against England one way or another is coming is an open secret.

DANGER: Finns Gamble On Chance Russia Won't Attack

(By United Press)

HELSINGFORS, Finland—Finland risked her security today in the belief that Russia would not attack to gain new territory. The Finnish negotiators were homeward bound from Moscow with nothing settled, and the people here prepared to endure the "war of nerves" they believed was forthcoming.

They had not long to wait. The Soviet radio at Moscow was heard broadcasting that the Finns had withheld vital meteorological information about a cyclone in the Gulf of Finland. The cyclone swept gulf water up the Neva river and threatened to flood Leningrad, the broadcaster said, and if the Finns had not violated the international convention by withholding weather information Leningrad residents could have taken precautions.

Diatribes of the Russian press and radio were officially ignored here, however, because, as Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko said, "We are not dealing with the press, even if it is 'official,' but with responsible government representatives of the Soviet Union."

Nothing was said officially of the negotiations in Moscow but it was believed the Finns had agreed to give Russia some territory on the Karelian isthmus, near Leningrad, and some islands in the gulf of Finland near the Russian naval base at Kronstadt, but that they had refused to cede the important port of Hango, at the entrance to

Wives Object To Dole

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A few days ago, this column published the findings of Dr. Burgess of Chicago, who had interviewed 526 married couples, and found that the happiest marriages were those where the husbands and wives handled the family finances jointly.

This has evoked a swarm of letters from wives who confide that they object to "the dole" as handed out by their husbands. Some of these ladies are pretty, clever at arithmetic and say by their careful economies they run their households comfortably on a minimum. Yet their thrift is never rewarded.

Many of them confide they are happy, love their husbands dearly, but they insist they'd be a lot happier if they didn't "have to beg for every penny." An appreciative wife, who'd like a different financial arrangement, writes as follows:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"As I read your column daily and enjoy your answers to problems, I have decided to venture a question of my own, which has been on my mind for sometime. My husband has very high ideals I know he'd never be unfaithful, but in our married life of more than ten years he has made it clear to me that he would always handle our finances

"We've never had a joint bank account. He allows me about $1 75 per day on which to pay all bills. It has to last or I do without. When I positively need clothes he gives me $5 or $10 It makes me think of throwing a dog a bone.

"If I were extravagant, I could understand this, but I know I'm a good manager There have been times, if he had taken my advice in matters of business, he would have made money. I hate to make such an issue about money. But there is a principal involved, and it's humiliating for a woman never to be able to count on a cent.

"I think half of the money my husband earns (after all our bills are paid) should be mine. Or at least, I could feel free to write a check in case of an emergency. I can't help it, but it does make a difference in the way I feel toward him Apart from this I would not want a better husband but the idea of a dole is humiliating to me.

A Wife."

If this should meet the eye of any dole-giving husbands, let me beg of them to take the elastic off the roll in the interests of the little woman at home. If she were not doing her best for you and the children in the way of heroic economies, please remember that her services as housekeeper or mother's helper have a distinct market value. And if it were not for the children she might decide to change her job.

ACCEPT YOUR GIFTS

ONCE IN a great while your opponents will prove friendly in effect, if not in purpose, by offering you a handsome gift When that gift consists of their being in the wrong suit which you can slaughter, it will pay you to refrain from being greedy. Doubling may chase them into something they can make, whereas quiet acceptance of the gift may be a much more substantial way of showing your gratitude.

East 4-Spades, West 5-Clubs, North 5-Diamonds and then East began to get cold feet, recognizing that the bidding was crowded pretty high. He was afraid to make a proper rebid of Spades at this level and so showed a mere preference for his partner's suits, at 5-Hearts, which West took to 6-Hearts.

South passed this and reaped a rich reward as a result after West ruffed the second diamond. Later South was able to take out the trumps and put his partner in to run the diamonds.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"For sobbing into your soup!" Lillian ejaculated. "I've solved the mystery of the disguised dame who's buzzing Dicky. I'll give you three guesses to name her."

"I'd rather you'd do that," I said faintly "I'm never any good at guessing"

"You're a piker," she said, not looking at me, and I saw that she was intently studying the lips of my husband and the disguised woman. "But I suppose we'll have to humor the child, so here's the broadcast. You see the lady across the way who's talking soulfully to your handsome husband? Well! 'that ain't no lady'—that's none other than our old palsy-waisy, Edith Fairfax."

It was no time now, for me to betray my fears. I must play up to Lillian, and I gave a light little laugh.

"Do you know, I did guess after all," I said. "But I was afraid to back my own judgment."

"It's the old gal in person," Lillian re-affirmed, "but what's eating me is how she managed to crawl back onto the carpet without my knowing about. I thought I had that baby buffaloed I'd told her what would happen to her if she tried to bother you, or to follow up that devilish letter she wrote you, but—"

"But don't you see," I said, as her voice trailed away and she concentrated again upon lip reading the conversation between Dicky and Edith, "that she's kept the letter of her agreement with you?"

"It wasn't an agreement," Lillian snapped. "I simply told her what would happen to her if she wrote or wired you, or came up here to bother you, and I sure didn't think she'd have the violin strings to disobey that injunction. She knew I meant what I said, and that I'd take her apart with my bare hands if she tried any monkey work"

"But she hasn't disobeyed you, at all," I protested, although I had no yearning to defend Edith. "She hasn't written me nor wired me, nor tried to get in touch with me"

"It isn't on the free list for her to show her face up here at all," she growled—there was no other word for her voice. Then I put a hesitating question.

"Lillian, you know, in that first letter to me, she said she was marked for death or sentenced to death or something like that What do you think? Is she ill, or was she pretending?"

WOMEN agree with me that the new 'suds-booster' added to Rinso makes it give richer suds in hardest water. The New 1940 Rinso's thick, longer-lasting suds get clothes snowy white, keep washable colors bright and gay. 3 MAJOR CITY ISSUES AWAIT COUNCIL ACTION

Solons Called Into Special Session Thursday to Act on Delayed Legislation.

City council will meet in special session Thursday night on the call of Mayor Claude M. Hunter to consider three major issues involving municipal improvements.

Chief among the measures which will be acted upon will be legislation dealing with the improvement of West Fourth street, sidetracked at the meeting last Tuesday because it was election night.

The measure, a resolution signifying the city's willingness to cooperate with the state on financing the project calls for the paving of the street from North Main street to Ausdale avenue.

It calls for a 50-50 participation on the improvement which has been estimated to cost approximately $100,000.

Enabling legislation will include appropriations from the general fund to finance water and sewer line extensions to be carried on incidental to the paving. City engineers are preparing estimates on that part of the job.

More Sludge Beds.

An appropriation of $4,000 from a special PWA fund will also be up for approval to finance an addition to sludge drying beds at the sewage disposal plant.

Plans and specifications now before the state department of health in Columbus are expected to be returned this week so that work can be started on the project immediately

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said that street department employes are expected to do the work.

Another project on which the city engineering staff is preparing estimates involves the removal of the old street car rails in Park avenue west.

A Pittsburgh firm last week offered to remove the rails and repave that section of the street for the steel, without cost to the city, but Nist said he will ask council for funds to underwrite the project, explaining that funds from the sale of the scrap steel which could be sold here in Mansfield would go back into the city operating fund, probably with some profit.

He said that if proved a profitable venture, some consideration may later be given to the removal of rails on other streets.

TAKES STEP IN 'PHONE CHANGE

Company Advises Against Using Telephone Numbers on Firm Printing, Advertising.

Preparing for its "cutover" to dial telephones next fall, the Mansfield Telephone company today advised printers and advertisers not to list telephone numbers on business cards and stationery of Mansfield business firms.

LeRoy Wittemire, general manager of the company said that the company suggested using the words "telephone connections" rather than the present telephone number, on stationery and similar matter, as a protection against changes in numbers which will be made sometime next year.

He said the next directory, to be distributed to subscribers in February, will not carry any number changes. All changes will be included in a directory issue which will accompany the change to dial telephones, expected next September.

Wittemire disclosed that the new numbers will have five digits but no prefix.

STUDENT COUNCIL PLANS VISIT TO 3 CLEVELAND HIGH SCHOOLS

Tentative plans to visit at least three Cleveland high schools next Monday were made at a meeting of the Senior high school Student Representative council yesterday.

The students will spend one day in the Cleveland schools studying the operations of student councils, what programs are carried out during the noon lunch hour, how study halls are conducted, how the school papers are operated and other school activities.

A delegation from the council is expected to make the trip. The group also voted to hold a dance in the gymnasium Friday during the noon lunch hour.

Borah Warns He'll Bolt If Dems Have Best Candidate

U. S. VOTING OF STRAIGHT TICKET FLAYED

Senator Calls Independent Voters 'Salvation of Decent Politics.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Senator William E. Borah, the Republican party's senior statesman, today served notice on his colleagues that he reserves the right to bolt his party in the 1940 presidential election if the Democrats nominate a more acceptable candidate.

His warning was carried in a brief statement, opposing an appeal by GOP National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton for Republicans to "vote the straight ticket" in 1940. Borah urged the voters to maintain an independent attitude in elections, and said he regarded "the independent voter as the real salvation of decent politics in this country."

Borah has informed his friends he will exercise complete liberty of action in the 1940 campaign, no matter what his party leaders do. He feels free, they added, to publicly support a Democratic nominee if he believes the election of a Democrat is more likely to mean good government and efficient administration.

The Idaho senator, however, is unlikely to support President Roosevelt for another term.

Never Backed Dem.

Borah never has supported a Democratic presidential nominee over a Republican standard-bearer. In 1912, as a manager for Theodore Roosevelt at the Chicago convention, he walked out of that assembly with the "bull moose" bolt, but he refused to attend the Progressive Party convention that nominated "Teddy."

In 1928, Borah toured the nation for Herbert Hoover, but four years later, he took no part in the campaign that ended in the election of President Roosevelt.

In 1936, he busied himself with his own senatorial campaign in Idaho, while Roosevelt was being reelected overwhelmingly over Alf M Landon, of Kansas. It is entirely likely that he will repeat his 1932 and 1936 activities, if neither 1940 nominee meets his approval.

The Borah announcement comes as two GOP possibilities—Senators Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire—begin nation-wide speaking tours. Taft opens his tour in Cleveland Thursday.

State Officials To Be Guests At Auto Club Dinner

Officials of the state highway department will be guests of the Richland County Auto club Friday night when it holds its 20th annual meeting and banquet at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Cylen W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, his assistant, Harold Culbert, and Col. Lynn Black, chief of the state highway patrol, will come to Mansfield for the affair.

Trimble

Andrew A. Trimble of Cleveland, who is nationally known for his marked resemblance to the late Will Rogers, will be the principal speaker and will give some highlights on "Mistaken Identity." Trimble played Rogers in several motion pictures.

A floor show will be brought here from Cleveland. During a brief business session nine directors to the club board will be elected.

More than 225 are expected to attend the banquet which is given for club members and their wives and friends. Carl H. Stander, president of the club, said.

Up and Down THE STREET

School officials weren't sure whether it was an over abundance of nerve or a diplomatic lapse when a nine-year-old boy appealed to the principal of Hedges school the other day to help him find his bean-shooter. Assured that it might not be comfortable for him if the shooter was found, the boy lost most of his confident air and edged out of the principal's office, mumbling about being sorry he brought it up.

WPA workers had some work to do over this morning on the new cement sidewalk on South Main street after a woman left her "footprints on the sands of time." The new wet cement was carefully covered over with tarpaulin and a small "catwalk" laid from the curb to the entrance for patrons of a store to walk over. But the woman thought the tarpaulin had been placed there for people to walk over, and when the management of the store showed some consternation at her walking over the wet cement, she said jubilantly: "But I never got a bit on my shoes. The workmen covered it with canvas." What she didn't know was that she had damaged one block of new sidewalk.

The Senior high school art room will be turned into a miniature art gallery during the next two weeks with the showing of a number of Japanese wood block prints. The prints show the work of well known artists of that country and are being displayed through this country by a New York art concern. The display is open to the general public as well as students.

It will probably take a good many years before they forget "Pete" Henry, a Mansfield native, who was twice named to All-America teams shortly after the World war while at W. & J. college. The present W. & J. athletic director's name came up in a radio discussion a few nights ago. Featured on the program were Grantland Rice, nationally-known sports writer, and Coaches "Bo" McMillin and Donald Faurot of Indiana and Missouri, respectively. In their estimation, Henry was one of the three greatest college linemen in football history.

DIES AT AGE 90

George Pittman Came to City 60 Years Ago.

George Andrew Pittman, 90, one of Mansfield's oldest residents, died at the home of his son, Albert M. Pittman, 23 Spring street, today following a brief illness.

Born in Pennsylvania, July 17, 1849, Mr. Pittman traveled by covered wagon to Maryland with his parents when a youth, and a short time later came to Ohio. He had resided in this community for 60 years.

Three sons, Albert and Clyde of Mansfield and Roy of Toledo; a daughter, Mrs. Cary Charles of Mansfield, and 10 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren, survive. He was a member of the First Lutheran church.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Thursday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

State Service Says Corn Yield to Be Above '38 Average With 49 Bushels.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio cooperative crop reporting service announced today that late field crops in Ohio turned out better than was expected a month ago. The federal-state service also said that production of apples, pears and grapes was expected to be larger than indicated on Oct 1.

Estimates of Nov. 1 indicated a yield of 49 bushels of corn per acre compared with 44 bushels last year. The total corn production was placed at 167,825,000 bushels which is about 11 million above last year and 35 million over the ten-year average.

Soybeans were expected to maintain last year's average of 21 bushels an acre. The increased acreage this year was expected to bring a production of 7,854,000 bushels compared with 5,313,000 bushels in 1938.

Potato crop estimates of Nov. 1 were about the same as last year, that is, 12,626,000 bushels. Yields per acre varied, some having been injured by the hot, dry weather of early September, while others were unaffected.

Sugar beets will be practically the same and buckwheat will be down to 192,000 bushels.

Pastures suffered from the dry weather during much of the early autumn and showed but 49 per cent of normal compared with the 70 per cent of last year's Nov. 1. This was reflected in a drop in milk production per cow from 14.5 to 14.1 pounds.

ASK FOR TRAINS

Holmes Countians Fight Move to End 2 Pennsy Runs.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Pleas of Holmes county residents to keep two Pennsylvania railroad trains running between Akron and Columbus will be heard by the public utilities commission here Nov. 21.

The commission today granted a re-hearing of its order of Oct. 13, permitting discontinuance of trains 604 and 605, effective Dec. 1.

The Holmes county residents contended there was error in the commission's ruling and asked the opportunity to present additional evidence showing why the trains should be kept running.

Representatives of Millersburg, Holmesville, the Holmes county prosecutor and the Millersburg Chamber of Commerce asked for the re-hearing.

CITE NEED OF AMERICAN-MADE GOODS IN EIRE

New Proposal to Prevent Ship Registry Transfer Stirs Controversy.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Controversy over shipping restrictions in the neutrality law was stirred anew today by Irish objections to being included in the war zone and by a proposal to prevent transfer of United States vessels to foreign flags.

At the same time, another maritime problem—the case of the City of Flint—appeared nearer solution when the German government ordered its warships not to interfere with the American freighter on her way back home.

The action was taken, the state department was informed late yesterday with the understanding that the ship, captured by Germany as a contraband carrier and later ordered released by Norway, had landed its cargo at Bergen, Norway.

The Irish complaint was made to the state department yesterday by the country's minister, Robert Brennan. He told Adolf A. Berle, jr., assistant secretary of state, that Eire had been injured by President Roosevelt's action in putting her in a "combat zone" from which American ships are barred.

Brennan said his country is neutral and will remain so; that she needs American products—particularly cattle feed, fertilizers and wheat, and that the Irish government does not believe American ships would be endangered by visiting her ports.

U. S. To Consider Plan.

Berle gave him assurances that the matter would receive study and that under the law, the president may define the combat zone at any time.

The proposal to prevent changing registry of American ships so that they could continue service to European ports came from Senator Mead (D., N.Y.) In a telegram to Chairman Bailey (D., N.C.) of the senate commerce committee, Mead suggested that the committee, of which he is a member, prepare legislation to prevent transfers and also:

Provide subsidies to encourage the operation of temporary and emergency ship lanes in "legal" waters, and "adequate" care for seamen furloughed by curtailment of shipping due to the neutrality law.

SEES DEM WIN

Cox Predicts Victory If New Dealer Named Candidate.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920, today predicted victory for his party in the national election next year if the convention will select a candidate "blessed by the New Deal and pledged to an era of constructive tranquility."

The Dayton, Ohio publisher made his forecast following a luncheon conference yesterday with President Roosevelt, his running mate in 1920.

Cox said his visit with the president was "mostly social" although the foreign situation entered into their talk. He said he found the president "keen and alert on affairs abroad."

Following the White House meeting, Cox was a guest at another luncheon given by Joseph P. Tumulty, war time secretary to President Wilson. Senators William E. Borah, Idaho Republican, William H. King, Utah Democrat and John A. Danaher, Connecticut Republican, were among those present.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Defeat of Ham and Eggs Plan Does Spell End of Trouble For California

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES—Twice now California has stood off the idiotic but dangerous ham-and-eggs proposal and the sober people of the state may allow themselves a breathing spell. Not for long may they relax, however, for the more California does not relieve want without curing it the worse her burden and the menace grow.

Never was any community so plagued by her own natural blessings, her own generosity and the disasters of her neighbors.

Not only the homeless, hungry farmers from the dust bowl, but hordes of querulous old men and women and, be it said, an overly big share of lazy whiners and deadbeats who were no good back home and never will be worth their room anywhere, have dumped themselves on California, attracted by the climate, the cheapness of existence and the relatively lavish relief rates.

Whatever the skill, stamina and character of the dust bowl refugees—and it is customary, God knows why, to emphasize their Anglo-Saxon purity—they are only part of the problem, and the fact remains that no state ever has been asked to find a living for so large an immigration of so little average usefulness and such puny resistance to political, economic and religious imbecility.

The task should not be wholly California's, and Governor Culbert L. Olson, who seems an earnest, responsible man, has proposed that all the states abandon income and inheritance taxes and leave this field to the federal reapers, each state then to receive back a percentage based on population.

This idea may readily be faulted, but he had in mind the flight of capital from California to Nevada and the decline of California's pickings from these important sources in proportion to the rise of her responsibilities and needs.

He recommends, also, the sale of tax-delinquent land to footloose farmers for bona fide use, with provisions against speculation. Carey McWilliams, chief of the state division of immigration and housing, demands collective farming, but insists that first the farm laborers must be organized and their employment regulated through hiring halls according to the practice on the waterfront.

This proposal has been attacked as Communism, and, begging the question whether it is or not, the fact remains that the CIO, which dominates the waterfront, in turn is dominated by the Communists which doubtless means that California's agriculture would be sabotaged from Moscow under McWilliams' plan, just as the shipping is sabotaged today.

The CIO, supported ham-and-eggs with no naive illusions about the feasibility of the pension scheme but with intent to demoralize the state government and speed a gory revolution. McWilliams, whatever else he may have in mind, is partial to the CIO, and the naked merits of his proposal therefore go appareled in a clout of Communism and suffer, as many honest plans do, the instinctive hostility of equally honest patriots.

But still the problem grows, with hoboes making it across the desert on every freight, 50 or more on a train, and little families of destitute Americans, father, mother and child, often intermingled with bums in the box cars.

The utter poverty of ragged people, lurching across desolate stretches in feeble jaloppies, miles from any town, sometimes kindling a little brush beside the road to warm the children while the weary man wheedles the engine or tapes a tire, is a sight to make the devil weep and shame or scare the most complacent.

If it is left to the Communists to exploit this misery that will be just too bad, for there is still time, though apparently not much, in which to cure it decently in a land where oranges are dumped into dry creek beds by the ton to await for rain to wash them to the sea.

In Southern California the vote for ham-and-eggs would have been larger but for the diligent counter-propaganda and counter-espionage of an organized opposition which abandoned conventional debate and confused the masses instead with appeals to their sympathies voiced by Upton Sinclair, Doc Townsend and others. The opposition also hired brass-check liberals and nuts to frequent soapbox meetings and argue against ham-and-eggs, using the screwball idiom which these shifting crowds understand nothing else but. In the end, though the opposition won big, they didn't win easy or for good and all.

This demand, like the sea, will come rolling in again and again, for it is a rich and easy racket, and the power of the poor is still there, like to wash away everything in one big, well-timed revolutionary breaker.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The western front was quiet, if by quiet you mean there was no shooting, and later there was plenty of that.

No shooting, but lots of shouting. There has to be, when a company of soldiers has to go charging over some shell-pocked terrain up a hill into German artillery fire.

The terrain, besides being shell-pocked and dotted here and there with gruesomely dismembered "bodies," was brilliantly lighted for these night shots of "The Fighting 69th." The Warner ranch, part of which had been torn up into a facsimile of a no-man's-land of the first World war, is a calabasas, which gets very cold at night. The audience, however, was large. It included some stellar spectators along with a hundred-odd of us movie war correspondents.

The shouting was about serious things. Movie wars are very serious business, in which casualties unforeseen must be guarded against. It's real powder they use, and it's real explosions that send the dirt — or loose cork, which looks the same but is less dangerous — flying. The battlefield was wired for sights and sounds of battle, "explosions" carefully placed, the advance of the troops carefully planned.

Through several rehearsals there was shouting rather than shooting.

"Be a little bit scared, boys," yelled the loudspeaker. "Don't act as if you were charging into cream-puffs. Keep your heads down!"

The real thing came at last, and the boys didn't act as if they were charging creampuffs any more. They really acted. Over the hilltop, beyond the barbwire entanglements, flashes of light silhouetted the shell-ravaged trees. The ground erupted with flares and explosions, and smoke puffed and rolled while the machine guns spit fire. The boys of the 69th—Jimmy Cagney supposedly somewhere among them—charged, scrambled into protective shell-holes, over fallen comrades, and they got there, up the hill, past the grotesque up-ended tank from which half-a-dummy dangled gruesomely. . . .

It was exciting business, especially when the explosions sent showers of cork over the spectators, and when it was over the shouting began again — because movie battles have to be won several times before the camera is satisfied.

A little way behind the lines I ran across Richard Berg, who's in the technical department on the film. Berg is a quiet chap, leanly middle-aged, to whom all this is pretty real. He was in the German air force during the World war.

"I'm on the right side now," he said. "Once I was in an airplane dropping bombs on Paris. My mother was French, my father a German Jew. He's a refugee now—escaped to Switzerland. We dropped bombs on Paris—for what? It was orders. What does a man think about, dropping bombs on a city. He can't think about it, he musn't feel. . . ."

Bellville Star Virtually Assured of Scoring Title

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor

GAME by game, Johnny Hallabrin is proving his worth to Coach Francis Schmidt & Company. . . . Last Saturday's game is hardly a test for a good ball player, we agree, but Halalbrin proved in this game that he could do anything asked of a fullback and, maybe, just a little more. . . The Mansfield boy scored one touchdown against the weak Maroons, but what delighted the Ohio State coaches was his sparkling ball carrying that set the stage for the fourth touchdown in the Bucks' 61 to 0 rout. . . . In three plays, Hallabrin picked up 54 yards to lug the leather to the six. . . . He started the series with a brilliant 36-yard run. . . . Hallabrin also proved that he could kick the oval; yes, even better than Charley Maag, who is intrusted with the responsibility of kicking off for Ohio. . . . Hallabrin kicked off after three of the Ohio touchdowns, and every time he booted the pigskin to the goal line, once kicking the ball clear over the end zone. . . . That's booting in any man's league, even against Chicago.

ANOTHER Mansfield boy who figured prominently in a major game over the week-end was Nick Weber of the undefeated, untied Tennessee eleven, which appears definitely slated for the Rose Bowl game. . . . Weber started in the left halfback position for the Volunteers against The Citadel, which was trampled by a 34 to 0 score. . . . Massillon is not only going in for great football teams, but also crack bands. . . . The town frotted out a 110-piece junior high school band for last week's game with Youngstown Chaney, which increased the year's attendance to 110,000. . . . That's more than any college in Ohio outside of Ohio will lure this season. . . . This might be a little late, but a Texas high school game played on Friday, Oct. 13, was decided with a player wearing No. 13 dropkicked the 13th and winning point.

PITTSBURGH visitors say the Pirates are on the market (despite denials) The reason they aren't bringing more than a nibble is that the price is way up there. . . . Aggies Push Vols In Vote

Texas A. & M. Gains Second Place in A-P Poll.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Texas A. and M., the southwest's candidate for election as No. 1 football team in the country, cut sharply into Tennessee's first-place margin today while strengthening its own hold on the runner-up spot in the Associated Press National banking poll.

Winners of eight straight games, in which their rivals have got but 18 points, and only two games away from a perfect record the Aggies got 28 first-place votes in the season's fifth survey for a total of 877 points to 1,011 for Tennessee. The Volunteers, as usual commanded a majority of first-place ballots—66 out of 113—but it was an appreciable drop for the team that is hampered by the weakest schedule of any of the big-timers.

The standing of the teams (points figure on 10-9-8-7-6 etc. basis first-place votes in parentheses)

ELYRIA PRO DIES

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Golf in the Cleveland district today had lost another prominent star with the death in Lakeside hospital of Bob Randall, 37, owner and operator of the Cherry Ridge course near Elyria. Randall for 10 years was the pro at the Spring Valley course in Elyria before buying Cherry Ridge.

Holds No Fear For Minnesota

Iowa, Nemesis of Notre Dame, Confident of Adding Minnesota's Scalp This Week-End.

By TOM SILER

CHICAGO—(AP)—Life is just one celebration after another these days out in football-crazy Iowa.

The football faithful who have just completed an hilarious week-end party as the aftermath of Iowa's amazing 7-6 victory over Notre Dame already are planning another wild one.

This is to be on Minnesota—and there seems (to the whole state of Iowa) to be no more reason to doubt there'll be a victory to celebrate than there was last week as the battle with the Fighting Irish approached.

After the Hawks upset the Irish, Head Coach Eddie Anderson, who was 39 years old yesterday, said he thought "the boys could beat Notre Dame and they did—I think they can take Minnesota." Captain Erwin Prasse, end and one of the eight regulars who played the full 60 minutes Saturday, summed up the team's attitude toward the Gophers thusly:

"Bring 'em on. It's just another football game for Iowa."

That is the spirit that has carried Iowa to five victories in six games and their most successful season in more than a decade. If the Hawks win Saturday they still have an outside chance to share the Big Ten title with Ohio State.

At Minneapolis, Coach Bernie Bierman received good news when he was told the bruised leg of George Franck, hero of Minnesota's 20-7 victory over Michigan, would heal in time for the battle with the Hawks.

COACH FRANCIS SCHMIDT has warned his Ohio State boys, who appear to be title-bound, that sloppy ball handling will prove their undoing against Illinois Saturday, citing the fact that Michigan fumbled six times and Wisconsin five against the alert Illini, who defeated both of them. . . . Down at Champaign, Bob Zuppke gave his boys some new plays to use against the Bucks. . . . John Doyle, senior center, has been named Wisconsin captain for Saturday's game with Purdue. . . . Purdue's regulars rested Monday while the reserves began work for the Badgers. . . .

Northwestern has gained more ground and made more first downs than any other team in the Big Ten, but has only three victories in six games to show for all that travelling. . . . They hope to do some of their running into the end zones this week again Notre Dame. . . . Red Hannenstein, left half, suffered an injured foot Saturday but is expected to be ready for the Irish. . . .

* * *

THE Michigan and Chicago squads skipped practice yesterday . . . The Maroons rested as a reward for holding Ohio State scoreless the first 12 minutes of their game. . . . Fritz Crisler said he thought a rest would help the Wolverines.

Pace Kayoes Foe Twice In Columbus Scrap.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Georgie Pace, world's bantamweight boxing champion from Cleveland, scored two knockouts in a single evening's exhibition last night over Bobby Docherty in the Columbus auditorium.

The first one came in round one when Docherty went down for a count of 10 after only one minute and 34 seconds of scrapping.

Docherty was helped to his corner and after a five-minute rest was permitted to come back for more in order to give the customers a longer look at the champion. In the returning bout, Docherty weathered the remaining seconds of round one but succumbed in 34 seconds of the next heat to a right to the chin. He was knocked out on the ropes and required five minutes to be revived.

Miller's Too Tough For Foe

Wins Last Two Falls to Trim Kansas Citian.

For a while last night it looked as though right and all the things that are good and true wouldn't triumph at Tim Nolan's Quality club wrestling show in the Armory—but everything turned out fine, thanks to Walter Miller's scrappy fighting and his ability to take punishment.

Miller, conqueror of the Great Mephisto here two weeks ago, didn't look so good in the first fall here against Bill Kenney of Kansas City—the Kansan punishing Walter no end and finally winning in 18 minutes with four body slams and a top body press.

Kenney's choking, kicking and eye-gouging had a near capacity house in the aisles and around the ring in this fall and in the second setto which went to Miller in twelve minutes. Twice Kenney tossed Referee Clarence Miller from the ring, and twice he returned, finally to help Walter pin the villain. The deciding grapple went to Miller in 10 minutes.

In the curtain raiser Bob Steele, Mansfield, bested another local boy, Fred Snyder in 17 minutes, while Indian Ike Gazelle won two of three falls to cop the decision in the semi-final, one of the fastest bouts Tim Nolan has presented in Mansfield.

ZALE STOPS FOE

CHICAGO—Tony Zale, 159, Gary, Ind., stopped Eddie Meleski, 159, Chicago, (2).

When Johnny Smith, alumnus, returns for the annual football "classic" with his best girl friend, he spends an average of $23.85 but overlooks the neatest "play" of the day. That's a "sneaker" pulled by indirect taxes throwing the alumnus' budget for a $5.95 loss. From the time Johnny buys the little woman an autumn posey until he puts out his final cigaret at night, he will have contributed nearly 25 per cent of the day's expense to the tax tills of his local, state and federal governments, according to the National Consumers Tax Commission.

10 Straight Strikes Gives Donnellan 279

Ealy of Safety Cabs Sets Two Season Records In Commercial C League.

TEN STRIKES in a row gave Bill Donnellan of the Liederkranz club a 279 game and a Club league record at the Meder alleys last night.

Starting his first game with a pair of spares, Donnellan followed with 10 strikes to register the new season mark in the circuit. He led his team to a 1050 game, which is also high for the season, and came back with scores of 189 and 169 for a 637 as the Liederkranz club hit 2825 for a pair of victories over the Richman Clothes.

Meanwhile, the Schoolmasters and Kiwanians remained in a tie for first place in the tight league race.

Harold Miller's 582 led the Schoolmasters to two wins over the Commercial Managers, and the Kiwanis club added a pair of wins at the expense of the Tracy & Avery club.

In the other matches, Pete Mayer upset 593 sticks as the Mansfield Savings Bank swept its series with the American Legion, the Optimists won two tilts from J. A. C. and the Page Dairys took two games from the Lumbermens Insurance.

Only five games separate the first-place Schoolmasters and Kiwanians from the tail-end clubs.

Cab Star Rolls 247 Game, 645 Series.

TWO RECORDS fell by the wayside in the Commercial C league last night when Ealy of the front-running Safety Cabs smashed out a 247 game and 645 series. Ealy erased records of 236 and 632 as he led the Cabs to a 2538 total and three wins over the East Side Nite club.

Hoefner came through with a 235 game and 590 series for the Ringside Cafe, which dropped two tilts to the Liederkranz club.

The Dominion Electrics took two games from the Musille Cigars to remain in second place, three games behind the Cabs.

Y Plans For Cage Season

Church Leagues to Hold Meeting Wednesday.

The Y. M. C. A. Church basketball association will hold an organization meeting at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Y, Don D. Cram, physical director, announced today.

Churches planning on entering clubs in the three leagues are requested to have representatives present at the session, Cram said.

Hostilities in the Church Class A, Class B, and Class C leagues are expected to get under way the first week in December, according to present plans.

The A circuit will play Wednesday night, the B loop on Tuesday night, and the C league on Saturday afternoons. Age limits for the three leagues are: Class A, 18 years. Class B, 17, and Class C, 15 and under.

A limit may be placed on the number of quintets eligible to participate in the league, Cram stated, and all churches should have entry lists completed as soon as possible. Officers for the coming year will be elected at the meeting. Francis Brown, league president, will preside.

Beats Grate Record

Scoring Spree Against Butler Puts Hamilton 64 Points Ahead of Field.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The most amazing series of upsets in years swept across Ohio's high school gridirons last weekend—but today's tale of pigskin pyrotechnics belongs to 18-year-old Howard (Tick) Hamilton of little Bellville, in Richland county.

The midget halfback—he's five feet eight and weighs 145 soaking wet—had himself an afternoon against Butler, winding up his scholastic grid career like a modern Merriwell.

Nine touchdowns and eight extra points constituted Tick's contribution to the day's activities as his team won 68 to 7—his 62-point splurge being the greatest seen around these parts since the boys started keeping records. His performance eclipsed the 59-point effort of Greenfield's Carl Grate a year ago against Circleville.

The busy day put Hamilton 64 points out front in the individual scoring race with a total of 187 for nine games—eight wins and a 13-7 loss to Mansfield Madison. "Tick" caught a pass and raced 20 yards for his first touchdown, intercepted an aerial and ran 50 yards for the second, skirted end for 12, 10, eight, 25, 18 and 60 yards for six others, and returned a punt 40 yards for the ninth.

Elden Bash of Mount Blanchard and Ken Basinger of Pandora, two more class B school performers, were tied for second place with 123 points each. Following in order were Bob Shaw of Fremont Ross, 117; Bob Frye of Crestline, 110; Hillis Hume of Alliance, 108; Glen Wittekind of Marietta, 107; Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton, 105; Gene Balconi of Sandusky, 103 and John Willis of Lorain, 100.

Strictly in second place was the fact that seven of last week's 17 unbeaten and untied teams suffered their first setbacks. Celina, Columbus West and Logan, which had won eight straight, and Toledo Libbey, tied once in eight starts, bowed out of the title picture with defeats, while Orrville, winner of eight in a row, and Lima South and Rockford, which had won seven straight, saw their hopes fall as they were tied.

Still riding the crest of the wave were mighty Massillon, West Jefferson, Toledo Waite, Conneaut and Grandview with nine consecutive victories. Crestline, Hamilton, Cleveland John Adams and Akron St. Vincent with eight, and Hudson with seven. Every other member of the 441-team contingent had been beaten or deadlocked.

Celina lost 13 to 6 to a fast-finishing Van Wert squad which

Pitt Star Finishes Ball Game, Attends Dance, Learns Next Day That Injured Leg Was Broken

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Unknown to the approximately 55,000 fans viewing the Pitt-Carnegie Tech grid battle, Panther Quarterback Ben (Big Chief) Kish of Tonawanda, N. Y., fought the enemy the last 20 minutes despite a broken right leg.

"Ben hurt his right leg in the second quarter," said Coach Charley Bowser. "He came out of his own free will which should have been the tipoff to the coaches. He loves to play football about as much as anyone I have ever known.

"During the intermission his injured leg was baked in the dressing room and then taped. When I asked how it felt he said it was O. K. But he couldn't get much drive. Mike Sekela, his reserve, was hurt in the third period so I asked Ben to warm up. He told me he was all right and I sent him back in.

* * *

"He stayed the rest of the ball game and got off one of his best punts of the entire contest. Saturday night he attended a dance. However, on Sunday he turned up complaining his bruised leg was bothering him. X-ray pictures showed a fracture of the small bone in the leg plus a split up and down from the break. That meant a cast, crutches and the end of his college football career."

Parents Warned By Court to Keep Pupils Off Tracks

Parents of 60 Senior high school pupils who live north of the Erie tracks received letters today from Probate Judge C. J. Anderson threatening court action unless they keep their children from loitering along the tracks.

Judge Anderson said the warning was the result of complaints from railroad detectives who reported that railroad property had been damaged and trains had been forced to slow down to avoid hitting the pupils.

E. A. Lommatzsch, detective for the Erie, said a number of glass insulators on telegraph and signal poles along the tracks had been broken by stones and boys had placed small obstructions on the rails several times

In his letter to the parents, Judge Anderson said: "Both you and your children will be brought into court if trespassing on the railroad property continues.

If pupils must cross the tracks to get to school, tell them to get it over with as quickly as possible and not to linger on the right-of-way."

THEATERS

KAY KYSER, noted band leader making his screen debut in "That's Right, You're Wrong," is the first star ever allowed to ad lib on the screen. Kyser only signed the contract to co-star in this picture with Adolphe Menjou after being assured that he would be permitted to extemporize when he puts on his act with his band . . . Ida Lupino comes of a long line of actors, including her mother and father, five aunts and four uncles, all of whom were on the English stage . . Isa Miranda was selected as Europe's "Ideal Woman" when she was a Continental film star . . . Toy soldiers were purchased by the Fleischer Studio to act as stand-ins for the Lilliputian army in the picture, "Gulliver's Travels," which is being filmed.

"Drums" Continues at Ohio.

"Drums Along the Mohawk," one of the most thrilling stories of frontier life to play a local theater in many months, continues at the Ohio through Thursday. With Henry Fonda and Claudette Colbert in the starring roles, the picture, in technicolor, depicts the romantic and adventurous days when America was young, with torch and tomahawk spreading their terror in the beautiful Mohawk Valley. Also in the cast are Edna May Oliver and Eddie Collins.

Coogan at Madison.

An appealing high school adolescent with a genius for getting in jams, a father who made Phi Beta Kappa at Princeton and a mother who "knows what's best for Henry," forms the plot of the stage comedy, "What A Life," which plays the Madison theater Thursday night, with Jackie Coogan the 16-year-old boy, Henry Aldrich. Josephine Dunn, who has been seen in many movies prior to her stage career, is also in the cast. All seats will be reserved for the one-night performance and the box-office opens each day at 10 a. m.

Mind Reader At Park.

Richard E. Sylvers, billed as America's foremost mind reader, answers questions about health, business, love, travel and domestic problems during his act at the Park theater this week, in connection with the double-feature showings of Charles Boyer and Irene Dunne in "When Tomorrow Comes," and another in the Tailspin Tommy series, "Danger Flight." The management announced today that a special program for women only will be presented by Mr. Sylvers on Thursday afternoon.

Film Wins Two Prizes.

One of the only films ever to win two grand prizes in one year, "Grand Illusion," featuring Jean Gabin and Pierre Fresnay, opens Wednesday at the Majestic theater. This film was awarded first prizes for the best film of the year from any country by the National Board of Review and the New York Film Critics' Circle. Also on the Majestic bill will be Robert Taylor and Myrna Loy, co-starred together for the first time in "Lucky Night."

QUIET BUYING HELPS STEADY STOCK MARKET

Steels, Aircrafts Favorites in Advance Following Early Irregularities.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Quiet buying in steels and aircrafts helped steady the stock market today after considerable early irregularity.

On the advancing side for fractions to around a point were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, United Airlines, Eastern Airlines, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, Glenn Martin, American Airlines, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott and U. S. Rubber.

Brokers could find little in the overnight foreign or domestic news to furnish much speculative stimulation and support accorded the list was attributed partly to the belief of some technicians that recently falling prices and volumes called for at least a temporary upward "correction."

of shipments which are up about 30 per cent over the same period last year."

The company manufactures hydraulic presses used in the aircraft, automotive, plastics and other industries and hydraulic transmission and control equipment.

B. B. Williams, president of the Cooper-Bessemer company at Mt. Vernon, said a "bright outlook for the future" was responsible for the plant re-opening.

"Improvement of the outlook cannot be traced to the European war, but rather to our regular line and the number of fields we serve," he asserted.

Before it suspended operations last year, the plant employed from 500 to 600 men, but Williams said the opening did not necessarily mean that all of them will start back to work immediately.

ATTACKS CHURCH

Browder Says Catholic Heads Oppose American Ideal.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The hierarchy of the Roman Catholic church was the newest of the Communist party targets today, accused by Earl R. Browder, indicted party leader, of attempting to "undermine and destroy" the Jeffersonian principle of separation of church and state.

Addressing 22,000 party followers in Madison Square Garden last night, Browder, free on $7500 bail on a charge of violating the passport laws, declared the recent encyclical of Pope Pius XII contained a "direct attack" on this American principle.

Browder emphasized the party had no quarrel with the great mas of Catholic workers among whom, he declared, could be found a growing sympathy towards socialism.

Taft Says Dem Policies to Bring War Threat to U. S.

G. O. P. CALLED PEACE PARTY; SPENDING HIT

President's Domestic Program Seen Bigger Threat Than Danger Abroad.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) says the whole philosophy of the Democratic party leads toward involvement in the European war.

"By 1940, it will be perfectly apparent that if the people wish to remain at peace, they cannot trust the power of peace and war to the Democratic party for four years," the Republican leader told the Community Forum last night.

"After his election, Wilson did not keep us out of war. Roosevelt cannot be re-elected, and no Democratic candidate can be elected on the ground that he kept us out of war. The Republican party is the peace party and it will be the peace party in the election of 1940."

Invited to speak on issues of the coming presidential campaign, Senator Taft declared that the domestic policy of the Roosevelt administration contained a far greater threat to the future happiness of this country and its people than any improbable involvement in the European conflict.

Denounces Seficits.

He denounced deficits and continued national spending beyond income and warned that the nation was rapidly approaching the debt limit of 45 billion dollars and that congress "will doubtless be forced in the next session to increase that debt limit by the president's threat to issue greenbacks under the emergency inflation bill if the increase is refused."

"Every previous president has felt a moral obligation to pay his expenses as he went. Only this administration is absolutely irresponsible. It is an insane policy . . . immoral in teaching the people they can get something for nothing.

No nation has ever continued it without inflation of the currency, the destruction of savings and the whole breakdown of its economic system."

The senator said the elections last Tuesday showed that a "growing distrust of New Deal policy still exists," and that "I am one of that school of thought that believes the third term question will not be an issue in 1940."

PONDERS SUIT FOR SHARE IN $30,000 ESTATE

Findlay Judge to Give Ruling in Dispute Over Bequest of Ashland Woman.

ASHLAND—The question as to whether the heirs of the late Juliette McConnell are entitled to have divided among them, the accumulated funds originally set aside until an old ladies' home had been established, has been given to Judge Chester Pendelton of Findlay for a ruling.

Suit was recently brought in common pleas court here by Clara Reidy and others vs. Hillis Cunningham, trustee, and others, to have the funds, close to $30,000, divided among the heirs on the grounds that it has not done any one any good.

In the one-day hearing held yesterday before the Findlay judge, after the counsel for all parties had agreed on the facts of the case, a deposition given by Cunningham in February was read.

Claim Trust Failed.

In this deposition Cunningham said the money had been given him to take care of until there was an old ladies' home in Ashland, and that item 31 of the will of Miss McConnell did not ask him to do anything more than this. He said that he had kept most of the money in government bonds.

It has been the contention of the plaintiffs that the trust has failed in that in the 12 years that the trust has been in effect, no steps have been taken to found such an old ladies' home. It is also claimed that the trust is a private one, and that Cunningham could designate to give the fund to any one.

The contention was argued by attorneys for the trustee who claimed that the bequest is a charitable one. Third party to the suit, the McConnell Old Ladies' Home Inc. seek to have the distribution request annulled, as they claim that they have a right to be considered as being eligible for the funds.

Boy Who Entered Boathouse Sent to Industrial School

A 12-year-old Mansfield youth who confessed breaking into the boathouse at North Lake park had been sent to the Boys' Industrial school at Lancaster today by Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court, while three other youths were returned to their homes on probation in other cases.

The boy who was ordered to Lancaster had been in juvenile court repeatedly on theft charges and was on probation when he broke into the park boathouse about 10 days ago and took a canoe, the court was told. Police found the canoe later at the park, badly damaged.

Two 16-year-old Mansfield youths who admitted a number of petty thefts in the city were put on probation and warned that the next offense will bring industrial school terms. One of them confessed taking a pair of gloves and a flashlight at the Y. M. C. A. and the other said he stole a bicycle at Senior high school.

A 14-year-old Mt. Vernon boy was sent home on probation by Judge Anderson following a citation on a charge of breaking into a farm house near Bellville and taking two old pistols and a watch.

TWO JAILED IN ROBBERY CASE

Patrolman Captures Man at Rear of Store, Finds Other Suspect Home in Bed.

Police were holding two Mansfield men for investigation today in connection with an attempted robbery of the North Main street A. and P. store early this morning.

One of the pair was captured at 1 a. m. today by Patrolman Floyd Bowers after he saw two men in the store. Bowers saw the men rummaging in the store, and they noticed him at the window at the same time and fled through the back entrance.

The patrolman said he ran to the rear of the store and found a man whom he believed to be a third member of the party and probably the "lookout." He was brought to police station and held for investigation.

Police said he gave them the name of another man and that when they went to his home found him in bed. He also was being held in connection with the breaking and entering of the store. The manager of the store said he was unable to tell whether anything had been taken from the place until he had completed a check.

A second attempt at breaking and entering in that vicinity was discovered by police when they found a window broken at Jack's soft drink place, 246 North Main street. Police said the men apparently had been frightened away before entering the place as nothing was disturbed.

DEWEY READY TO TOSS IN HIS HAT

New York Prosecutor Expects to Announce Candidacy for Presidency Soon.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Thomas E. Dewey, New York's racket-busting district attorney, will toss his hat into the presidential ring within the next few days, the New York Journal and American reported today.

The stage setting for the long awaited announcement of the district attorney's further political ambitions was arranged yesterday at a meeting of the New York state G.O.P. executive committee, according to the Journal and American.

Originally it had been planned for Dewey to announce his candidacy later in the month in St. Louis when he is awarded a medal for his anti-crime activities, the newspaper explained.

New York state G.O.P. leaders vetoed this plan in the belief Dewey's candidacy should be announced in his home state.

As the plans stand now, a committee of prominent state Republican leaders will call on Dewey within a few days and formally offer him its support in the role of New York's favorite son.

"Dewey is expected to accept, thus officially launching a campaign for delegates under way for several months," the Journal and American stated.

SEEK FEES IN TAXPAYER SUIT

Bayer and 4 Other Attorneys Ask Share of Any Taxes Levied Against State.

Although no valuation of allegedly taxable personal property holdings of the estate of the late Frank B. Black has been completed, Attorney Joseph A. Bayer of Mansfield and four out-of-town attorneys, who instigated a suit for collection of such taxes, today submitted a motion for allowance for counsel fees.

The motion was submitted in Ashland shortly after noon today, where the appeals court, which is hearing the case, is now sitting. Judge C. C. Sherrick, presiding jurist, declined to say what amount the attorneys had asked as their fee. He said no action had been taken by the court on their motion.

The case seeks to collect back taxes allegedly due on the personal estate of the late Mr. Black from 1926 to 1932.

Filing the motion with Bayer as counsel for Michael Hallabrin, of Mansfield, plaintiff in the taxpayer's suit, were Attys. Hart, McHenry and Jones of Canton and Hostettler of Massillon.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott were in Ashland for a hearing on the motion this morning. Wolfe has been named as one of the defendants.

The auditor said the amount of taxes due, if any, would not be determined until accountants complete an audit of the records of the estate of the late Mr. Black.

SMALL NATIONS SEEN READY TO UNITE FORCES

Lose Fear of Big Neighbors, Determined Not to Give In to Demands.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

The Hitlerian-Allied war of sound finally has talked itself into an uncomfortable position from which it would be quite easy to tumble straight into a general European upheaval.

The many small countries, taking courage from each other, are getting over their fright more than a bit and are sticking out their chests.

They are bent on maintaining their neutrality, but just now are showing a sturdy determination not to knuckle under further in the matter of their independence and territorial integrity.

The Finns' daring rejection of the Russian territorial demands, the vigorous preparations of Holland and Belgium to defend their neutrality against aggression if necessary, the reported new Balkan agreement tending towards defensive co-operation under Italian sponsorship—all these developments mark a hardening of the political temper of the continent.

It is significant, as showing the trend of affairs, that in all instances this attitude is the outgrowth of fancied or real dangers emanating from Germany or Comrade Russia or both these co-workers.

The Anglo-French allies apparently haven't inspired fear thus far among the lesser states.

Support Each Other.

So delicate has become the position of some of these small states that it wouldn't take much bullying to set them to using the arms which they already have ready at hand. And there is indication of a growing tendency among them to support each other.

Indeed, the way things have been framing the past few days it wouldn't be surprising to see development of coalitions which, taken as a whole, would present very formidable military power.

He would indeed be either daring or very rash who challenged these neutrals far in their present frame of mind. He might start a stampede which he couldn't stop.

These developments are coincident with bad news for the Dutch-Belgian peace proposals or, so far as that goes, for any other mediation offers in the near future. This lies in the Anglo-French announcement of their war-aims, which call for restoration of Poland, Czechoslovakia and Austria.

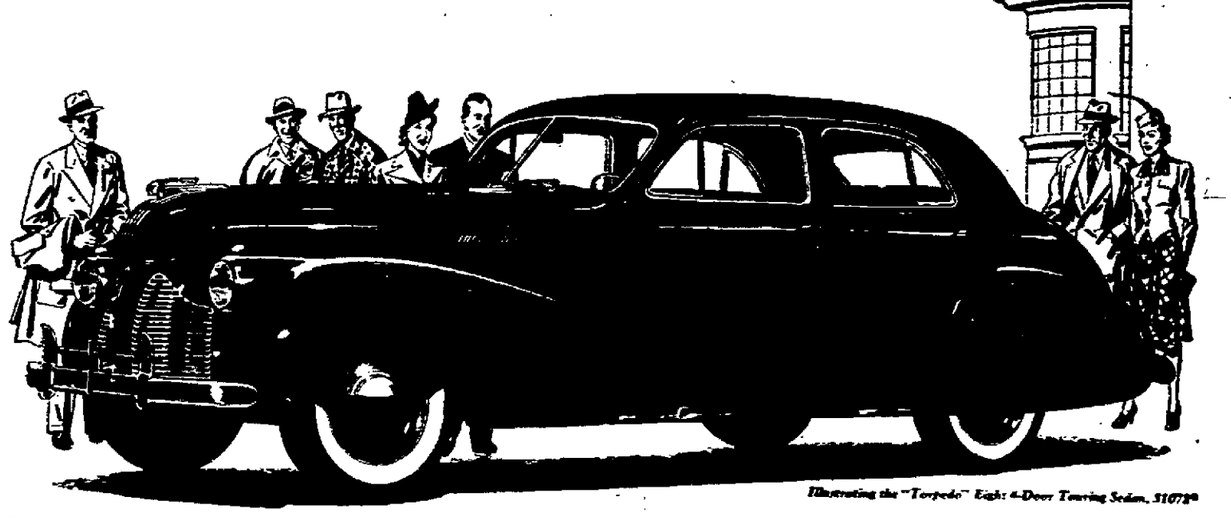
"Torpedo" Styling has taken America by storm



*Illustrating the "Torpedo" Eight 4-Door Touring Sedan, $1079

If it isn't a Pontiac it isn't a "Torpedo"

NO, "Torpedo styling" isn't a term like "four-wheel brakes" or "safety glass." It doesn't denote a development that's industry-wide—as yet! It's the colorful phrase that America adopted to describe the boldly different beauty of the biggest, smartest, most luxurious Pontiac ever built.

Without that sparkling jewel-like front-end and its cresting Silver Streak—without those flaring fenders fore and that artful taper aft, it could only be "just another car." But NOT A PONTIAC "TORPEDO"—with its rich interior luxury and the thrilling, thrifty eight-performance for which Pontiac is renowned. So when you can't resist the urge to own an eight with "Torpedo" styling, come in and get the only car that has it—the leader of Pontiac's 1940 line of 17 sixes and eights . . . all supremely smart and brilliantly beautiful!

PONTIAC SIX PRICES BEGIN AT $783
*Delivered at Pontiac, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment—white sidewall tires and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

CHAPTER XXV

She shrugged her shoulders under her black suit jacket, caught a glimpse in the driver's mirror of her haggard face under her black straw sailor, and knew she was showing too much anxiety over Roger. But why hadn't Roger let her know he was going to the Springs for the week-end. Now, she'd made this fool trip and had to be pestered by this man Harry!

"No use being so disappointed, little one," he told her now in that oily tone of his. "We'll have a good time—and let the world roll by."

"Yes—that about expresses your attitude toward everything in general, doesn't it?" she said resentfully. "You came to town on business—please don't let me detain you."

"Business? Only the business of escorting you around, my dear. You sensed that, didn't you? Pretty women fascinate me."

There was more of this sort of talk on his part without much response from Rita. She decided to watch her chance and slip away from him. When he went to telephone would be ideal.

But as if he suspected that she might play some such trick on him, he had a waiter plug in an instrument beside their table at the restaurant, and there was no convenient way to get rid of him for the present.

She had just about decided to snub him directly, pretend she had an appointment at a beauty parlor, when he began talking into the mouthpiece. He mentioned the restaurant.

"Come on down here, Eva," he said quickly, "and meet a friend of mine."

This made it even more imperative for Rita to get away. Eva Sheen indeed!

Then Harry asked impatiently, "Tom Cleveland? Don't know him. Well—bring him, if you must."

He hung up, turned to the tense Rita.

"Eva says there's a Tom Cleveland with her. She's bringing him along. Ever hear of him?"

"Yes—I've heard of him," Rita said, avoiding Harry's searching eyes.

Tom coming here with Eva? This changed everything. Now, she would docilely remain her with the repugnant Harry. She had been wanting to see Tom for some time, and here was the opportunity made to order. Somehow, she would manage to have a word with him alone. She'd talk with him about that threatening note she had received, see how he took it. So much depended on that.

She found herself chatting animatedly with the pleased Harry who was convinced that his own fetching personality had at last begun to work on her. He did not know that inwardly she was teeming with nerves, that her high-pitched laughter was close to something denoting hysteria.

Tom always with Eva! And he had said she meant nothing to him! Why—why?

She wondered frantically if this day would bring it all to light.

Eva Sheen, stunning in silver fox jacket over a tightly fitted black wool dress, sailed confidently into the restaurant with the tall, sandy-haired Tom closely following. At the sight of Rita, Tom looked startled. With stern disapproval, his quick penetrating glance swept past Rita to Harry Handy, now on his feet.

Rita thought, "Tom and I are two of a kind. He keeps as bad company as I do. Eva? Hump!"

Eva introduced Tom to Harry, then seated herself on the red leather seat across from Rita.

As Tom dropped beside her, Eva drawled condescendingly, "Rita, darling—where have you been keeping yourself? I haven't seen you in ages."

"Just as if she didn't know!" thought Rita. But she reminded her swiftly enough. "Of course, you heard about my riding accident. It's kept me."

"Oh, forgive me! I was so shocked and grieved when I heard of it! I meant to come to see you. But I've been kept so—so busy." She glanced insinuatingly up at the blackly scowling Tom.

* * *

Strangely now, Tom began paying marked attention to Harry Handy, nearly ignoring the ladies present. Again Rita condemned his taste. Why should he be exerting himself to win Harry Handy's approval?

"Let's make a day and night of it," Tom unexpectedly suggested when they came to the dessert course. "You all be my guests. We'll go places—take the midnight plane for the Springs. I've been wanting to vacation there for a whale of a time."

Eva pouted, exclaimed, "Auntie would be simply furious! She's planning to drag me to her favorite charity matinee tomorrow. And you've forgotten our roller-skating date for Friday, Tom."

"It can go hang for all I care," he told her, almost rudely. "Now that I've met this cousin of yours, I've got to show him around."

Harry Handy looked decidedly pleased. He said immediately, "Fine! If you and Eva go back with us tonight, it will just round out our party, won't it, Rita?"

He was calling her Rita now in a too familiar tone, and she bit her lower lip in vexation. Besides, it seemed that no one was seriously considering her preferences. Tom knew exactly how she felt about Eva Sheen.

Or was Tom arranging this so that he could see more of herself? Apparently not, when he was so wrapped up in the idea of giving Harry a good time. Was it because he was Eva's cousin?

There wasn't much sense to this, but was there ever much sense to anything Tom ever did? He was acting now as unpredictably as ever. Perhaps later she'd get a chance to talk to him alone. For a long time she had been wanting to discuss that threatening letter, and watch his reactions. Sometime between now and midnight she might be able to accomplish this, if Eva didn't pull too much of her clinging-vine technique in his direction.

In the end, Tom had his way. Eva telephone her aunt and arranged to fly to Palm Springs, have her trunks sent down later by train. Tom's plans were now developing into a real vacation and Eva intended to remain in his immediate vicinity, and make the most of it.

They spent the afternoon in a picture theater. After dinner at a famous restaurant they went on to a hotel where Rudy Vallee was playing. Presumably they were there to dance, but actually they did little of it.

Tom had been paying Rita little or no attention, nor Eva either, for that matter. He seemed feverishly intent upon cementing the friendship of Eva's cousin, giving him no opportunity to be more than civil to any one but himself. In fact, Tom took Harry into the taproom, leaving the girls alone at their table to amuse themselves with sandwiches and ginger ale.

The men were gone a long time. Eva was angry and sputtered out exactly what she thought about all this, and Rita, not knowing what to make of the whole thing, replied in monosyllables.

But disgusting to Rita was the return of the two deserters, a little the worse for their long session at the bar. She was amazed to see that Tom was even more wildly incoherent than his new friend Harry.

The orchestra soon drifted into a sweetly undulating waltz, and Tom invited Rita to dance. With her heart in her throat, she went to the center floor with him.

She was provoked at herself for the foolish trembling that seized her when his arm went around her.

But instead of the endearments he might have offered after their long separation, he began dancing with, "It's great meeting Handy! My lucky day! Eva's been telling me a lot about him—I've been wishing he'd come back to this country."

* * *

Peculiarly now, his voice was perfectly steady; he had lost the inebriated air which only a few minuates ago was so startingly noticeable. Rita realized that he had been clowning again. But why?

She frowned up at him, her mouth twitching.

She said, "I can't see what you admire in the man. There's something about him I distrust. I can't explain it—but I don't want to be near him."

Tom flashed her a loving glance.

"You're a keen judge of human nature, I'll say! But no matter how you feel toward Handy, don't show it. He's—well, I'm going to pal around with him. He means—something special to me. Sorry—but I guess you'll have to stand for it."

She stiffened with resentment as she said, "How interesting! So you're trying to order me around again! Why should it matter to me what pals you choose?"

"Don't be like that, Rita! I've got to get darn well acquainted with Handy. It's necessary for certain — certain business interests of mine."

"He looks like anything but a business interest to me!" she sputtered hotly.

"Putting over a big deal is complicated sometimes. Being a woman, you wouldn't know — some of the—angles."

She allowed this to pass. She got out waveringly, "Tom—I've something to tell you. It's about—oh, I had a letter warning me to keep quiet about that beach murder. I phoned you to tell you, but..."

"You got a letetr?" His face was a mask.

"Who — who do you suppose could have sent it?"

He smiled down at her a little crookedly. They were dancing now comparatively alone in a far corner of the big room, and above the music and commotion of moving feet only a fragment of any conversation could be caught by the other dancers. It was not as private as she could have wished, but she had to talk to Tom now, see how he responded to discussion of that crime.

"You're still the sweetest girl in the world—and I love you," was his inconsistent reply.

Her face grew scarlet. Trying his "line" again—that "line" she had formerly swallowed hook, line, and sinker!"

"The same old hooey you give out whenever you want to crawl out of things!" Her voice was edgy. "This time it won't work, Tom Cleveland!"

He laughed this off, sobered quickly.

"Frankly, darling, you're showing to much spirit. But it becomes you. What oomph you have—and to spare! You're a little bit of all right—and I repeat—I love you."

25 FIRMS SIGN UP 100 PER CENT IN RED CROSS ROLL CALL

The annual Red Cross drive in Mansfield has made an encouraging start, with 25 business and industrial firms and organizations in the city pledging 100 per cent membership, roll call leaders reported today.

An army of 500 volunteer workers under the direction of L. W. Birch, general chairman, extended its activities over the entire city and county in the campaign for at least 10,000 contributors to the Red Cross fund for unfortunates.

One industrial firm reported 250 members already and others had a large percentage of early membership. The drive, part of a nation-wide campaign for funds, opened Saturday and will continue until Thanksgiving, Nov. 23.

Weak Market Blamed On Foreign Stock Dumping

Add insomnia items: Headline, "New Beds Show That Furniture Men Are Wide Awake."

The initiative and referendum are somewhat like firearms — handy in an emergency but dangerous if used carelessly.

"Turkey hotdog" is announced as a new dietary snack—and it should be right handy for observance of the month-end Thanksgiving.

Tax Spenders Keep Busy

WITH further tax increases apparently necessary in order to meet growing government costs, it is interesting to note that tax collections in 1938 were 18.5 per cent above those of 1937 in 43 of the 48 states, according to the census bureau, which also discloses that taxes collected in Ohio during the last fiscal year totaled more than $226,000,000.

Largest single item listed is $48,665,000 gasoline tax, with the retail sales tax accounting for almost forty million dollars. Special taxes on beverages, tobacco, inheritance, insurance, amusements and personal property accounted for other millions.

The 10-mill limitation on real estate taxes, regarded as equitable in relieving tax-burdened property owners, merely shifted tax sources and did not accomplish intended economies in administration of government.

There is now talk in Washington about broadening the base of the federal income tax, with the idea of making it applicable to more small wage earners. Such a change, however, is not regarded as good politics, in advance of a national election, and it may be temporarily deferred.

But present deficit spending must eventually be reckoned with and what is not paid now must be paid later by materially increased taxes.

There has been no shortage of apostles of wasteful spending—an urgent present need is for sane leadership in governmental economy.

Reasons for 'Phony' War

ABSENCE of major engagements on the western front has brought criticism in some quarters that Europe's present war is "phony" and that there must be more bloodshed in order to make it a real war.

But Walter Lippman, columnist and student of history and military tactics, believes that this is "exactly the kind of war to wage against the revolutionary imperialists." He says in the New York Herald Tribune:

"By such a war there can be won all that can be won by anybody in a war between modern states. This phony war alone attacks the source of its trouble, which is not Germany nor the German nation's need to expand its influence and commerce, but the power of Hitler and the Nazi party to overawe Germany and Europe."

Such a war, he maintains, is capable of bringing the Nazis to their knees without sacrificing a generation of young men and impoverishing western Europe.

The problem just now, however, is whether Hitler will permit such an economic struggle as a substitute for military conflict.

Time to Inspect Heating Plants

COLDER weather, with resumed requirement for home-heating, brings the increased fire hazard that results from defective furnaces and heating equipment.

Statistics reveal a considerable increase in fire losses as the cold season advances, with the cause usually traceable to defective, rusted or broken parts in the heating equipment.

Annual inspection and thorough cleaning of furnace, or other heating equipment, including chimneys, is advised by fire prevention authorities.

It is a good idea also to look for hot parts of the heater or pipes that may be charring burnable materials nearby. Unless there is sufficient clearance for safety, the inflammable material should be protected by asbestos and sheet metal separated by air space.

Another point to keep in mind is never to force a fire. Also remember such simple precautions as placing hot ashes in metal containers and keeping any papers left in the cellar at a safe distance from the furnace.

Greater Safety In Air

COMMERCIAL air lines of the United States announce that in the seven months ending with October they have flown 500,000,000 passenger-miles without a fatality or even a serious injury to any passenger or crew member.

This means that in seven months American air lines carried more than 1,250,000 passengers and flew 52,000,000 miles with complete safety. They also carried large quantities of mail and express. It was equivalent to 2,000 trips around the world.

Safety is the most striking element of the record. Total mileage will increase rapidly with more scheduled flights on old routes and development of new routes. But the two things go together. If safety were not increased there would be no demand for expansion of lines and service.

Chefs by Any Other Name

THE Chefs de Cuisine Association of America and the Societe Culinaire Philanthropique, member organizatio is of the Congress of Chefs and Culinarians, are about to Americanize the printed food lists of hotel dining rooms and finer restaurants. They hope to have them called bills of fare instead of menu cards, and all the edibles mentioned will be given their plain English names.

This reform will be greeted with favor by most diners, although many were beginning to understand the exotic names for familiar dishes, and some may even have enjoyed the supposed extra elegance they gave to a meal.

But if master cooks are going to be sensible about the dishes they prepare and name, should they not extend the simplification of names to their own societies?

Odorless Limburger

LIMBURGER, says a dictionary, is a semi-hard, unpressed cheese originally made in the Belgian province of Limburg, having a peculiar odor and a nutty flavor.

It is also made in Wisconsin, but laboratory experts there have conspired to alter its original nature. They have discovered how to do away with the "peculiar odor."

But the true limburger enthusiast may like the distinctive aroma and find the cheese less to his taste without it. So it may be necessary to make limburger with and without odor, in order to cater to all tastes.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—The American Federation of Labor has promised to lobby in congress next session to rescue Dave Beck's Seattle labor domain from the wrath of outraged Washington apple growers.

Beck, shrewd and hard but no roughneck, has been labor king in Seattle for a dozen years or more under a tacit agreement with local industry. He takes no nonsense from his subordinate labor groups. There are few "quickie" strikes among outlaw labor organizations in Seattle. In turn, Beck exacts from industry an extensive code of cooperation.

Beck is head of the teamsters union. In Seattle that is a broad term. The big Washington port city is not surprised when stenographers, waiters and beauty operators are listed as members of the teamsters union.

Beck Has a Fright.

BUT a rebellion of eastern Washington apple growers gave Beck and his organization a fright last year. Here's the story as it is told here. So iron-clad was Beck's control of the trucking business that farmers from the upland part of the state could not drive their own produce-laden trucks into Seattle. At the three main passes through the mountains behind Seattle, Beck's men stationed patrols. Farmers with their trucks were stopped, compelled to seat a driver and pay him a day's wages for the final few miles into Seattle, even though the farmer continued to drive his own truck.

It was a jolly arrangement for the truck drivers, but the farmers rebelled. They advanced a piece of initiative legislation last fall so restrictive in its nature that strikes—as they are practiced on the Pacific Coast—would have been vastly handicapped. By such a narrow margin was it defeated that Beck's advisers warned him that he had better placate such farmer opposition before it really hit him.

• • •

He Sees the Light.

BECK is belligerent but not stubborn. He quickly saw the light. To the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, of which his tightly-knit organization is an affiliate, he conveyed his wishes.

The apple growers of the state of Washington wanted the regulations against apple spray residue modified. So did Beck, the convention was told.

The apple growers of Washington wanted support for the bill by Senator Schwellenbach of Washington authorizing $300,000,000 of additional farm credit refinancing. So did Beck, the convention was told.

The convention did not include the items specifically among its formal resolutions but the wishes of the Washington farmers, supported by Beck, were made a part of the legislative program which the AFL will sponsor in congress.

Old Stuff.

COOPERATION with potential foes is no new diversion for Beck. He started out years ago by organizing the laundry drivers in his own particular way. To the big laundry operators of Seattle he went with his proposition. He wanted better terms for the drivers. In return for better conditions, he offered to help freeze out cut-rate laundry owners. The thing worked. Subsequently he applied it to the dairy industry and to taxi companies and a fist-full of other groups, including the all-powerful teamsters union, which now is the backbone of his organization.

The industrial operators, in turn, have helped freeze out opposition to Becks labor organizations.

So tightly woven is the cooperation that complaints have arisen that business in Seattle is almost strait-jacketed. Beck's people flatly deny this, insisting that business benefits hugely by assurance of peaceful relations with labor, which Beck enforces.

From time to time reports come from the Pacific coast that a concerted movement is under way to break up Beck's tightly-knit system. Only lately we have received such a report. Each time heretofore the movement has been met and liquidated by Beck, just as he is seeking now to quiet the opposition of the Washington apple growers. Each time new doubt is expressed that he can survive, but he always has.

Timely Editorial

Others Have An Interest.

The case of a boy of high school age who has received five traffic violation tickets, and had his license suspended for 30 days for reckless driving, is one that bears on a dilemma common to the time: How is the free-expression school of child rearing to be reconciled with the rights of others on the highways?

To let an adolescent carve out his own destiny and learn by his own mistakes may be all for the best, if the effects of his errors are visited only on himself and those responsible for his management. But a motor car is a lethal instrument, and obviously the leeway that can be given the young character elsewhere in expressing itself is not to be allowed in the handling of anything so potentially dangerous. Behind the wheel is not the place to work out personality problems, discover one's true self and what not.—Detroit News.

ARE WE GOING TO PULL ANOTHER "BONER"?

Listen, World!

A Gallant Lady Goes Home.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I NEVER met that brave and lovely lady, Alice Brady. But, as I read Louella Parson's tender story of her long ordeal and death, I realized with a wrench how deep a part of my life she'd became and what a gap she'll leave.

Queer—isn't it?—how you can live, cheek by jowl, with some folk all your days, and be always as far apart as the stars. Yet some stranger, whose actual face you've never seen, will be part of the very warp and woof of you, from the first glimpse. It was that way with Alice Brady. Not only for me, but for thousands who wrote to pay her tribute in the passing years. People you'd never expect to write . . . timid, discouraged men . . . drab, lonely women . . . whose chilled and weary souls she warmed with her beauty and courage like a fine, ruddy draft of wine. She was never just a great actress to those folks . . . nor ever playing a role. She was part of their lives . . . bound up in their own joy and pain.

Yet there were never any stage tricks about her . . . no glamour stuff. Plain as an old shoe and natural as good brown bread, she was. There she'd be, standing over a wash tub, with the sweat streaming and the hair straggling and her faded apron soggy wet—and all the while laughing and cursing and chuckling the heart out of you with that twinkling twist of a smile. . . . And suddenly you were grinning back . . . and a song was running through you . . . and the flags were flying . . . and the fret and fear of things had slipped away. Rags and worries, what did they matter, when you shared them with a friend

The talent she had for giving herself—not knowing her, I wondered about it. You can't do that just by acting—any more than a cub reporter could have written "Hamlet." And she seemed so young and blooming, so untouched . . . how had she discovered the authentic taste of tears or the small, dark signals of a broken heart I know how, now. She knew them because she was living them herself. All those years when she'd been lifting our misery by sharing it, she'd been bearing her own . . . telling no one . . . laughing at it and going on and carrying us with her!

They gave her the Academy award for playing "In Old Chicago." But there's not enough gold in all this sad world to reward her for the comfort she gave and the courage she restored, and the heads she held out of the dust . . . when her own was drooping with pain.

And I'm thinking of others. Grand Old Marie Dressler—bucking the bullies, raising hell with the softies, pounding the salt into life again, when her own tide was ebbing fast. Lonely, heart-broken Bill Taylor setting his weary feet with such desperate bravery on a new trail.

And of another tall Irish spalpeen whom I've known and loved and worked with for many a year. Six-foot-plus of Mick fun and blarney and battling spunk—and a heart like the Grand Central! Hundreds he's helped and healed with his friendliness, that one, kidding them out of their black despairs, steadying them when their poor addled wits went blithering . . . and never once letting them guess that the lips behind that Irish laughter were gray with pain. Here's to you—and God's blessing on you my friend—Erin's best beloved sonuvva gun!

Millions more there are—who'll never know medal or wreath in this world—who fight their lone battles with broken blades and mask their defeat with a grin. A game gang, all of them—and none of them gamer than the black-eyed colleen who's headed west. So pass the word on to the angels—"Hi, fellas, shine up that big dome! Get ready your prize harp and halo—Bill Brady's best girl has gone home!

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Except Yourself.

You give me everything except Yourself. You whom I love.
You give me coins, gems, and words
But far away, above

The world, somewhere you keep your heart.
Or so to me it seems.
You never let me come so close
That I can share your dreams.

You give me everything except
The one thing that I crave.
Yourself, and all I hold is dust
Because of what you save.

What is the mechanism of pain in a tooth on the contact of sweets?

This is a fact but it is without any very definite explanation. Of course, it means that there is a cavity in the tooth. Contact with sweets does not cause pain in the case of an intact tooth. We must assume that the nerve endings which are exposed in the dentine of a cavity are sensitive to the chemical stimulus of sweets. The enamel overlying the dentine of the tooth acts as a protector, and if the tooth is exposed close to the gum margin where the enamel stops, pain will be caused in this fashion.

It is, of course, easy to explain the effect of temperature, hot liquids, or cold liquids, upon tooth pain.

Under any circumstances, the pain is a protective device of nature and means: Go see your dentist.

Why do corns hurt during damp or rainy weather?

The relation of barometric pressure to pains of the joints and of calluses, such as corns and scars, is principally due to changes in the caliber of the blood vessels and to changes in blood pressure at this time.

In a series of about 1,000 rheumatic patients, this symptom was acknowledged in over 80 per cent.

Is bacon good or bad for babies, or does it make any difference?

Children's doctors and mothers are likely to advise the addition of a little bacon to the diet of babies and small children. Hygeia, the official journal of the American Medical association, recently asked several children's doctors whether this was a good practice. Their replies were as follows:

"There is no adequate explanation for the common practice of adding bacon to the diet of babies."

"If it is done, as is commonly said, to give the baby something to chew on, other articles of diet could be used to better advantage, such as toasted bread crusts or zwieback."

"The use of bacon in the diets of babies and small children was for many years a fairly common practice among doctors, but I think it has pretty well died out. It is a little difficult to tell why it had so long a popularity."

"Bacon contains no nutritional factor besides the fat and protein."

"The old-fashioned bacon rind that some babies got in a certain strata of society is fortunately no longer encountered and I believe had no real standing with physicians."

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Authorities are quietly investigating inside reports that the chief reason for the flabbiness of stock prices is secret, systematic dumping of U. S. securities by the Allies.

The doldrums gripping the stock market are in striking contrast to the exuberance of industry. While the business is higher today than in 1937, in some lines even higher than in 1929, stocks are from 45 to 50 points below 1937 levels and approximately 200 points under 1929 highs.

Every time the market stiffens and starts upward, a selling wave immediately develops and prices slump. The core of this selling, authorities suspect, is of European origin—governments seeking to obtain dollar credits in this country to finance the war purchases made possible by the lifting of the arms embargo.

At the beginning of the war, British and French holdings in U. S. stocks and bonds were around $5,000,000,000. These investments were chiefly in so-called gilt-edge industrials, such as General Motors, General Electric, DuPont, and Allied Chemical; and the major railroads, Pennsylvania, Southern, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Great Northern.

Since then the two governments have taken over these securities and in recent weeks have been secretly unloading them to pay for heavy outlays for war materials.

• • •

Concealed Sales.

EVIDENCE of the effort being made abroad to cloak these operations in deep secrecy is certain confidential proposals made to leading U. S. firms whose stocks are held by the Allies.

The London branches of the principal New York banks, through which most of these transactions are handled, were asked to approach these companies with a proposition to issue new temporary certificates to cover unloaded securities. In other words, instead of the original stock certificates going through the New York Clearing House and revealing their source, temporary certificates would be issued in the name of the agent bank, thereby secreting the origin of the sale.

Another proposal was to permit the London agents to cable that certain certificates had been "canceled," that is, sold, and the companies then to issue new ones.

So far most of the corporations have rejected these schemes because of the danger of forgeries and other crooked operations, but indications are that the last has not been heard of the matter.

Snagless Stockings.

CHEER UP, girls; the government has tackled that terrile daily hazard——the snagged silk stocking.

The U. S. bureau of standards is making an extensive laboratory study aimed at evolving a way to lick the snag menace. However, it must be admitted that so far results have been meager.

The experts found that snags occur chiefly in "low twist," or loosely woven, hose. But they also discovered that while "high twist" stockings have more snag resistance, when once snagged they develop longer runs than "low twist" hose.

The experts have come to one conclusion: The finish of a stocking has a great deal to do with its durability. Working from this base, they are concentrating on finding the best finish which, combined with the most efficient type of silk twist, will give consumers a snag-proof hose. So far, the bureau has discovered only one brand of stocking on the market genuinely run-proof. This brand has a reinforced fine silk under-web that locks every stitch in the stocking.

Note—The experts rate as worthless certain chemical preparations intended to be snag resisters.

New Catholic Leader.

INSIDERS are predicting that the major development at the conclave of Catholic hierarchy in Washington this week will be the informal elevation of Archbishop Frances J. Spellman, of New York, to the role of the late Cardinal Mundelein as the leader of the church in the U. S.

Young, liberal, Archbishop Spellman is Pope Pius XII's closest friend in this country. Like Cardinal Mundelein he also is an old friend of President Roosevelt and a supporter of many New Deal policies, including the neutrality bill.

Another important result expected at the conclave is a clear-cut declaration pledging the Catholic clergy of the U. S. to the anti-totalitarian policy enunciated by the Pope in his recent encyclical. The Pontiff denounced the destruction of Poland and hit at Nazi race theories, which he characterized as one of the "pernicious errors of our time" and an "attempt to destroy human solidarity."

The encyclical ran directly counter to the anti-Semitic blasts of Father Coughlin. The radio priest, while the subject of much private discussion among the prelates, will not be considered by the conclave. He is classed as a problem of his diocese, not of the hierarchy as a whole.

The annual meeting will be the first to be held in Washington in many years, and marks the 150th anniversary of the establishment of the American hierarchy. Sixty archbishops and bishops and many prominent laymen will attend the two-day conference in the library of Catholic university.

Habit of Snakes

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED through rough limestone country, on a beautiful day in Indian summer. The sky was blue, and the sun shone almost hot upon protected places. The woodlands and distant hills were indistinct, wrapped in a soft blue autumn haze. Spiders webs floated their silken, silvery threads against the sunshine, like delicate gossamere. Occasionally I felt one against my face.

The air was fragrant from the woodsy mould which bore northward from a strip of white oak trees. Pale round heads of dandelion seed stood quietly at rest within the mellow light, waiting a wind to bring them flight. Up along the slope I noticed a fallen spray of late wild asters. A humble bee made zigzag flight across the peaceful hollow. The narrow slope, the trees, the rocky ledge, was mirrored in a slowly moving stream just below. I saw myself, with other objects, distorted somewhat, in the placid water.

I stopped upon a bench of higher ground, above which blunt shelves of native limestone protruded. Here it was warmer, both from the sun's rays, and from the heat reflected from the slope. I sat beside a mossy stone to enjoy the landscape, when I smelled a strange, unpleasant odor. It was a stench that one could almost feel and touch. I was uncomfortable, and decided to leave at once. I put my hands upon the ground, to aid me in rising. My left one touched something cold and squirming. It was a slim, long garter snake. I prodded his stiffened form away with a dead stick, and watched him slide quietly down the slope. Then I investigated the ledge of rock above me.

Not five feet away from where I had sat, I saw a ropelike mass of snakes, tangled and braided about each other as thick as a four-inch pipe, and five feet long. Garter, copperhead, blacksnake, blowing viper, blue racer—all were represented. When I poked my stick too near, the thick mat writhed and twisted and three larger ones tore loose and feebly wriggled back to a small opening between two rocks where the soil was almost even with the burrow.

One other time I saw such a twisted mass of snakes. My father showed them to me, upon a mountain ledge in early spring, when I was just a lad. I had never seen them so late in the fall before.

Fishermen Help Rescue Crew of Warship After It Hits German Mine.

sion. Other members of the crew who were floating about in a ship's boat were picked up by a tanker after they had rowed for hours in the darkness.

Two German ships, the Mecklenburg, 7,892 tons, and the Parana, 6,038 tons, were scuttled by their Nazi crews rather than permit them to fall into British hands yesterday.

Germans to Attack Armed Merchantmen.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—Authorized German quarters indicated clearly today that German submarines henceforth would attack merchant ships equipped with guns. The indication followed angry protest in the German press against the arming of British and French merchant ships.

The newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter published a long list of British and French ships "known to be armed." It included the British superliner Queen Mary, tied up at a New York pier since outbreak of the war.

The authorized source was asked whether ships equipped with "defensive weapons" would be attacked.

"We make no distinction between defense and offensive weapons," the source replied.

British Threaten Germany Bound Boats.

LONDON—(U.P.)—There were indications today that Great Britain might soon start seizing neutral ships from operators who persist in carrying contraband destined for Germany.

The British have that right under international law but have not invoked it so far on the theory that during the first few weeks of war, ship owners often did not know the contraband list.

Neutrals have complained over the delays caused by the contraband control and it was explained that the British are attempting to speed up the work and are asking owners to co-operate by supplying manifests in advance.

More than compensating for the loss, however, was the admiralty announcement that the German steamers Mecklenburg, of 8,000 tons, and the Parana, 6,000 tons, had been sunk by British warships.

Say Nazi Planes Hit British Warship.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—German airplanes which raided the Shetland Islands yesterday destroyed two British hydroplanes and appeared to have struck a British cruiser, the German army high command said in a communique today.

The communique said that all the planes which raided the Shetland Island, 600 miles from Germany, returned to their bases.

The British admiralty yesterday said that German planes which reached the Shetland Islands dropped bombs but were driven off. The admiralty said that some bombs fell in the sea and others, which fell on land shattered windows in houses and damaged an unoccupied dwelling. There was no other damage, the admiralty said.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The federal circuit court of appeals today had under consideration Grover Cleveland Bergdoll's appeal from an eight year sentence imposed by an army court martial for evading the draft in the last war.

Bergdoll's attorney argued that he had never formally entered the army and hence could not be legally tried by a military court.

It was further revealed that Bergdoll has refused the $300,000 offered him by the government in settlement of his confiscated estate and would seek to obtain the full amount of about $750,000.

the Gulf of Finland, or Petsamo, in the north.

On that point, it was believed the negotiations had become deadlocked and Finland called its mission home.

To the best of her ability, Finland was ready to defend herself. Her 300,000 troops were in position near the Russian border; her water lanes mined and naval defenses organized. Although the Finns have little anti-aircraft defense, their larger cities have been partially evacuated and the government radio appealed to the evacuees last night not to try to return home. The remark heard often here is: "let them bomb, we will rebuild."

For all the preparations, few Finns believed the Russians would attack. Most believed that the government would work out a solution eventually, and that world opinion was on their side and would help preserve them.

Reds to Keep Troops on Border.

MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet Russia, hoping the economic strain of counter-mobilization still may bring Finland to terms, probably will continue massing troops along the Finnish border, diplomatic observers said today.

(Finland has been preparing for five weeks against a showdown with Russia, and approximately one-tenth of the 3,067,000 population has been mobilized for defense service.)

There appeared to be a general belief here that the Finnish diplomatic mission, which departed for Helsinki lats night after steadfastly resisting Soviet demands for certain territorial concessions, would not return.

The Finns themselves, silent and serious as they boarded a train, indicated that resumption of the negotiations was up to their government. The delegation is due in Helsinki tomorrow.

CITES DROP IN JOBLESS CLAIMS

Ohio Unemployment Head Points Gain In Jobs Available.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—H. C. Atkinson, administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, reported today that jobless benefit payments and the number of initial claims filed during October fell to the lowest point in the year. "Obviously reflecting a rising trend in employment."

Atkinson said October checks, averaging $10.12 a week, totaled 133,146, a drop of 22 per cent from September, while benefit payments of $1,229,457 reflected a 23 per cent decline. He said payments since January totaled $19,957,458, and estimated the fund balance at $128,000,000.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—State police today joined the hunt for three men who robbed the First National bank of South Charleston of $19,000 yesterday afternoon.

Four bank employes and eight customers were forced to lie on the floor while the robbers systematically cleaned out the tellers' cages.

The bank was robbed of $39,000 in another holdup on Jan. 19, 1938. Three men who robbed the bank that time were later caught and convicted, and part of the loot was recovered.

cosmetics, is the basis of a glamorous make-up."

Miss Bennett follows her own theories. Not beautiful, she still has that "something" that sets her apart from run-of-the-mine women. Her blond hair doesn't have that defeated, artificial look; she doesn't use eye make-up with her unusually large blue eyes, and her rouge follows the natural bony structure of her face—which is another of her theories on make-up.

The oldest of the three Bennett sisters is, as every one who follows the movies, knows, that rare specimen, a "glamor girl" (we're awfully sick of the term, but what substitute is there?) and a hard-headed business woman. And because she has made a study of make-up and skin treatment, she's going to cash in on it by putting her own line of cosmetics on the market.

But a screen career and a business career isn't enough to satisfy this restless, energetic woman. She will do her first stage play this winter when she appears in New York City in Noel Coward's "Easy Virtue."

"What do you do for relaxation?" I asked.

"Take voice preparatory to further work in radio," she said in a voice so vibrant with energy that it made me feel exhausted.

"What," I demanded, "no ballet lessons?"

She took the suggestion half seriously. "I may go in for that when I'm older," she said.

She still had a glass of milk in her hand as we stood at the elevator. "I have to drink two quarts of milk a day," she explained, "and it seems to me I've always got a glass in my hand. I eat everything that comes in sight—and still I can't gain." She weighs an even 98 now.

LETTER OFFERS FIRST CLUE IN O'HARE SLAYING

a "couple of C's" reward, and concluded with a warning, "Carry little Oscar with you wherever you go and remember a guy named Eddie."

Lieut. Leroy E. Sanderson of the Los Angeles police homicide squad said Stoddard has been a featherweight prizefighter and had been "talking big" to friends at Los Angeles about his associations with O'Hare. He was not injured seriously.

If authentic, the letters—both disclosed within a few days of O'Hare's slaying and Capone's scheduled release next Sunday from federal custody—presaged a new era for Chicago.

The revelation came while Chicago officials were assuring the public that Capone would not be permitted to return to Chicago.

O'Hare was killed with the old gang flourish and technique Wednesday as he drove his expensive coupe toward Chicago. He had taken over the track from Capone when the latter went to prison. Since then he had obtained control of, or interests in, horse and dog tracks in seven states. Investigations during recent days had indicated that he had acted as "front man" for the syndicate while Capone was in Alcatraz. A definite link had not been established until Prusinski's disclosure of the letter today.

Found In Hideout.

Investigators did not know who wrote it and believed it had been sent to a third party who had turned it over to O'Hare.

"This is the first tangible evidence connecting O'Hare with the Capone gang," Prusinski said.

Prusinski found it in a luxurious and heavily barricaded hideout which O'Hare had maintained in the basement of a northside apartment house. It was typewritten, and was signed, "George."

Prusinski said it read as follows: (spelling and punctuation unchanged):

"Here is another matter, of importance, I would like for you to take care of at once just recently a couple of fellows were returned to this place from Alcatraz, these fellows are friends of mind, they know of my friendship, and connection with Ohare and for that reason, they told me, of remarks and threats that Capone, is making, regarding Ohare, seems that Mr. Dago is disappointed because Ohare wont stand to be pushed around by his majesty.

"You know Ohare, and him had many arguments and disputes over them tracks, I think the sore-spot is something in connection with Sportsmans park, but we are not interested in his argument, our interest right now is for you to immediately contact Ohare and tell him the Big-Dago swears he is going to have Ohare, or will see that some of his friends, score for Eddie.

"Now tell Eddie this information, comes from responsible people, if you can't contact Eddie, perhaps, Oneil can reach him.

"If and when you, have talked to Ohare I would like for you to advise me that you have given him my message.

"Sincerely your friend,
"George."
